

Patrick D'Haese, Corporate Director of Awareness and Public Affairs for MED-EL

Patrick D'Haese has been the Corporate Director of Awareness and Public Affairs for MED-EL GmbH since February 2013. He has over twenty-five years of experience in the Healthcare Industry, with specific expertise in the field of active implantable devices, namely cochlear implants and other hearing implants. During his career, he has held various global and European industry positions allowing him to develop and understand a multitude of perspectives on issues associated with hearing loss and its treatment.

Patrick holds degrees in speech and language pathology, audiology and business administration. Over the years, he has lectured around the world and published widely on cochlear implants and has been involved in several research studies and clinical investigations. Patrick is a thought leader in the area of hearing impairment.